B
Until the 1940s, Portobello was like any other market in the area selling mainly fresh food.

However, in 1940 dealers started selling unwanted household items, slowly turning the market into what it is best known for today.

C
Visit Portobello Road on a Saturday when all five sections of the market are open. Find anything you desire, from clothes, household items and food to second-hand goods and antiques. It is one of London's famous streets full of energy and excitement. It's a must-see destination!
